

Google Classroom 6th Class Ms Foley.

Muireann researched the life of the suffragette Emmeline Pankhurst and created a very detailed poster.

Ella was inspired by the artist Giuseppe Archimboldo to create her favourite character Catra using images of fruit and vegetables.

Carly has been relaxing by completing some beautiful mindful colouring.

Orla wrote an alternative ending to Snow White, which is not the happy ending we're all used to!

Alternative Ending to a Snow White

And so Prince Charming bent down and kissed the sleeping Snow White. The seven dwarfs looked on in expectation, except, of course, for Sleepy, who had zero interest in romance and had, once again fallen asleep.

The dwarfs watched as the handsome Prince kissed the sleeping Princess, watching to see her wake up from her death. But as soon as the Prince's lips touched hers, the dwarfs could see that something was terribly wrong. Well, Doc could, the other dwarfs had their hands over their eyes while the Prince kissed Snow White. Doc could see the Princess's clothes turning from snowy white, to the deepest black. Upon her head a spiky black crown was appearing. Snow White's gentle pale face was transforming into a mean, evil face that Doc recognised only too well and when the girl's eyes opened, they were no longer hers, they were a deep, dark black.

This was not Snow White in front of them. Prince Charming and the other dwarfs didn't notice because the Prince was still kissing who he thought was Snow White, and the dwarfs were still covering behind their hand while the Prince was kissing the figure in front of them. "Nooo !! Stop !!" yelled Doc, hurling himself towards the Prince. The dwarfs looked out from behind their hands and even Sleepy woke up with a start. "Stop!! That's not Snow White!! It's the Evil Que-"

An invisible force hit Doc in the stomach and he went flying backwards. The Evil Queen had stopped him from finishing his sentence but she was too late. Prince Charming looked up and when he saw who he was kissing he ran away yelling, "Mouthwash!! Mouthwash!! Argh!!"

The Evil Queen watched him go, then turned to Doc and the dwarfs. "Fools!!," she yelled, her voice echoing around the forest. "He was supposed to make me look as beautiful and young as Snow White!! But you've ruined it!! And you'll never see her again for it!!" Then the Queen stood up and disappeared in a swirl of black robes. The dwarfs looked at each other in dismay. "We have to get Snow White back!!" said Happy. "Lets- achoo! go!!" agreed Sneezy. And with that the seven dwarfs set out to get Snow White back.

Orla Kelly.

